MEDIA RELEASE – 5 December 2023

Kahungunu to discuss its approach to the government’s direction

Ngāti Kahungunu, like many iwi is concerned about the government’s direction and has called a Hui-a-Iwi to discuss its approach moving forward.

The new government’s first joint announcement included that they would remove the Māori Health Authority, Māori wards in local government, Māori involvement in the governance of natural resources, Māori language in government departments, the right of Māori children to be kept in their own whānau, government services being delivered to Māori, Smokefree New Zealand, the jurisdiction of the Waitangi Tribunal, and Māori rights under Te Tiriti o Waitangi and the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples.

Ngāti Kahungunu Iwi Incorporated Chair, Bayden Barber says, “Astonishingly, this government has focused so early on removing policies designed to improve Māori health and wellbeing outcomes. Our life expectancy is already 8 years shorter than non-Māori so their stance on smoke-free policy and the health reforms designed to improve this situation is disgraceful.”

When asked about the review of Treaty principles within existing government legislation, Barber said, “My ancestor Harawira Mahikai signed Te Tiriti o Waitangi. As signatories to Te Tiriti o Waitangi we would expect that there would be clear engagement and that any “review” of Te Tiriti principles or anything like unto it would need to be agreed by all parties. This hasn’t happened, so we will fight this to the highest court if need be.”

The statements made by the government coalition have been seen by many as a frontal attack on Māori. “We will not stand by and let this just happen”, says Barber. Politicians, iwi leaders, community organisations, marae and whānau are mobilising to take action.

Barber was part of the Kīngitanga’s 165th-year commemoration in Auckland last weekend. Kīngi Tūheitia took the opportunity to discuss with iwi leaders that attended how to best organise ourselves and resources to respond to the attacks. Barber says, “It’s in our best interests that we meet as Ngāti Kahungunu to discuss how we move forward in light of the government’s position statements thus far.”

The Māori Party and other groups have organised protests against these government announcements. Many people understandably have deep feelings about the statements that have been made by Government.

In terms of where he sees things going, Barber says, “This is a three-year marathon, not a sprint. A sensible and wise government would sit down and talk to its treaty partner rather than unilaterally remove our hard-won legal rights. We invite this government to come to Ngāti Kahungunu and meet with us. Mā te ihu me te rae ka tau te rangimārie, it is through face-to-face dialogue that solutions are best found.”

The Hui a Iwi is being held on Saturday 16 December at Waimarama Marae and starts with a pōwhiri at 9am.

The purpose of the Hui-a-Iwi is to bring Kahungunu together, to discuss the impact that the Governments announced changes have on each region and to communicate and coordinate the united key elements of a Kahungunu 3-year strategy that will be presented at the National Hui for Unity being hosted by Kiingi Tuheitia at Turangawaewae Marae, Ngaruawahia on 20 January 2024.

“We recognise that this is a busy time of year, however this is an important kaupapa and requires a coordinated approach, and a Hui-a-Iwi is the best way to unite our iwi voice” – says Barber.

Waimarama Marae whānau are prepared to host the hundreds who will attend. Sport Hawke’s Bay have been engaged to support the day by hosting activities for children in the new resurfaced tennis court area. A Bus is being made available to support those who need a ride to Waimarama from Hastings Central.
